EXCURSIONS

Explore deserted beaches and secret caves, climb island peaks for panoramic views and discover the native flora and fauna. Share the local guide's knowledge and insight about the delicate balance between nature and those who live there.

Along the way we will make landfall and visit local villages, rich in culture and tradition. Our guests will witness authentic daily life, with the opportunity to take part in some local festivities.

Raja Ampat

WEST PAPUA, INDONESIA

Remote and undisturbed, the breathtakingly beautiful islands of Raja Ampat are a nature lover's paradise.

Bursting with colour thanks to the incredibly healthy coral, the warm waters are home to reef sharks, manta rays and whale sharks and offer some of the best diving and snorkeling opportunities in the world.

On land, many species of stunning birds of paradise inhabit the islands and can be seen on island treks or while paddle-boarding close to shore.

Locations such as Wayag are famous for their panoramic views and bays filled with small islands while local villages offer cultural excursions and some of the warmest hospitality you will ever encounter.

Komodo & Flores

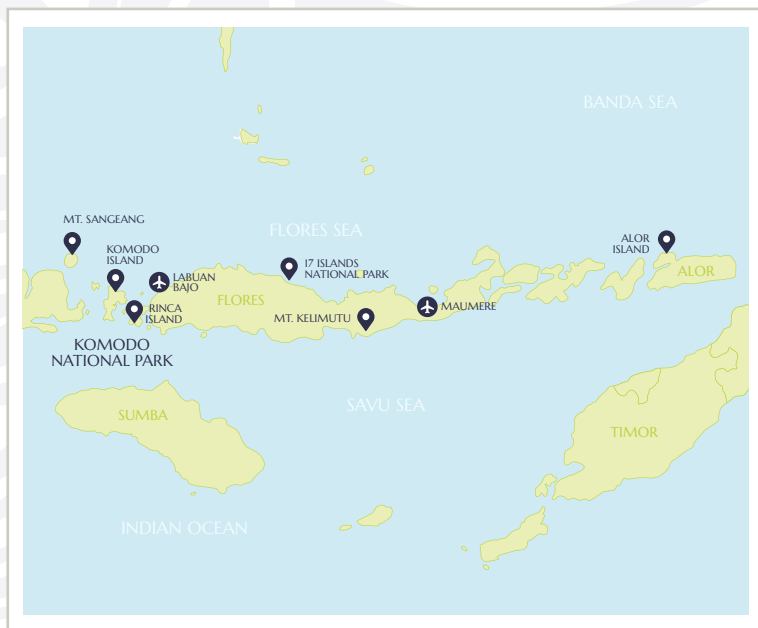

EAST NUSA TENGGARA, INDONESIA

Lying just to the west of Flores in Eastern Indonesia, the grassy sloped islands of Komodo National Park offer visitors gentle trekking trails and beautiful beaches to relax on.

Dolphins are a common sight and the area is also on a whale migration route. Teeming with sea life, the park's plentiful coral reefs are considered to be some of the best in all of Indonesia.

The National Park is also home to the famous Komodo dragons, the largest living lizards on Earth and found only on Komodo and Rinca Islands.

Heading eastwards, 17 Islands National Park boasts huge colonies of flying foxes, colourful coral gardens and crystal clear water while Mt. Kelimutu's spectacular coloured volcanic lakes and Alor's tribal communities are real highlights.

Islands of Thailand

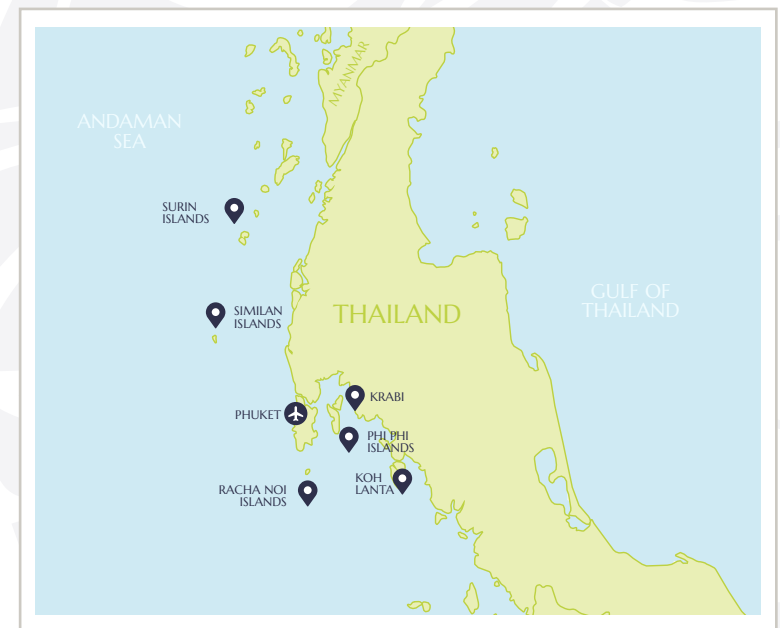

PHUKET, THAILAND

With spectacular rock formations, secret coves and beautiful beaches, the exotic islands of southern Thailand are perfect for exploring by sailing yacht.

East of Phuket, Phang Nga Bay is renowned for the sheer limestone pinnacles that rise dramatically out of the emerald green water while the Phi Phi Islands offer secluded coves to explore by kayak or paddle board.

To the northwest, the jungle covered Similan Islands are a world away from the bustling beaches of Phuket. A marine park since 1982, the surrounding waters are regarded as one of the finest diving locations in the world.

Further north, the beautiful Surin Islands also offer excellent diving and snorkeling and the chance to swim with Whale Sharks.

Mergui Archipelago

SOUTHERN MYANMAR (BURMA)

With over 800 idyllic islands to choose from, the Mergui Archipelago in southernmost Myanmar has something to offer guests of all ages. Tropical rainforests for exploration and bird watching, white sand beaches for sunbathing and picnic lunches, extensive coral reefs for snorkeling and diving.

Swim with turtles and mantra rays, look out for monkeys, wild boars and deer on the larger islands, or simply relax and soak up the natural beauty of these untouched islands.

Much of this remote archipelago remains unexplored by anyone apart from the nomadic Moken, the local sea gypsies who can be seen going about their daily lives as they have done for generations.
